Increased Demand Necessitates H & H Improvements

Extensive improvements, designed to increase capacity of output, recently have been made in the big, modern sunlit plant of the Hoffman-Hayman Coffee Co., 601 Delaware Street. These improvements were necessitated by the ever-increasing popularity and public demand for H & H and Sam Houston coffees, packed in reusable vacuum glass jars, in particular, and the other fine products offered by this concern in general, according to R. W. Menger, of the H & H company.

Pictured here is a section of the packing department of the Hoffman-Hayman plant, where a large number of persons are employed. The special vacuum pumps and chamber, where all air is sucked out of the famous H & H and Sam Houston coffees crystalvac jars, are shown. There is no cleaner, finer plant of its kind than the home of H & H products. Scrupulous sanitation is maintained and every product of the company reaches the consumer absolutely clean and pure.

The Hoffmann-Hayman company pioneered the vacuum packed, reusable glass jar in the State of Texas. Contrary to the belief of some, H & H Crystalvac really costs no more than other forms of packing. This is because of the re-use and the cash value of empty jars.

Sales figures compiled by Mr. Menger show that Texas Girl coffee, another H & H product, now is the leader in its price field in San Antonio.

Beautiful Garden Opens at Wolfe's Inn

Beneath the arching limbs of beautiful liveoaks, and with flowers blooming in numerous clusters, the outdoor dining garden of Wolfe's Inn, six miles north on the Fredericksburg road, was opened Saturday for the 1935 summer season. The opening of the garden was delayed several weeks this year, due to uncertain weather, chill winds, rains and hail. But indications now are that summer really has come to stay a while and so the garden has been opened—which will be welcome news to hundreds of patrons of the celebrated resort, who have expressed disappointment from time to time that the opening had been delayed.

Perfectly prepared food, perfectly served in a perfect setting of woodland beauty and restfulness combine to make Wolfe's Inn one of the most celebrated, popular and attractive eating places in Texas. In addition to an established patronage from discriminating residents of San Antonio and immediate vicinity, the famous tavern attracts guests from many distant points throughout this section of the state.

The owner and operator of the Inn is Worthy W. Wolfe. And he personally directs the entire operation of his celebrated tavern. Mr. Wolfe also personally selects and buys every item of food served at his place and personally supervises its storage, preparation and serving.

Spotless cleanliness is the rule at Wolfe's Inn. The kitchen and food storage compartments are open to inspection at all times.
